Walk On Me

I lost before I even played the game.
The cards were stacked.
I never had a chance to win.
I was blind, but now I see
for what good it does me.
Just a fool in love
come on and walk on me.
Walk on me baby.

I could not read the writing on the wall.
My eyes were sunk two black and tiny balls.
I'd try with all my might,
but I couldn't get it right.
Just a fool in love
come on and walk on me.
Walk on me baby.

I never thought that I could need protection.
After all how much could a woman take?
The jokes on me.
She took more than my affection
and I got just what was coming to me.
Nothing but a big heartache.

So tell me now it's over. Now I see you on his arm walking down the street.
How was I to know?
I guess my thinking's slow.
Just a fool in love.
come on and walk on me.
Walk on me baby.
